2) Rule 9 relating to the election of Pdts & Vice Pdts of City municipalities is as noted below —

" The election shall be subject to the approval of Govt. x x x x x x x x x x or in the event of two candidates securing an equal number of Votes, Govt may appoint the President or the Vice President as the case may be, or may order a fresh election."

3) Sorted for orders

4) The rule quoted above provides two alternatives viz (1) Appointing a President & (2) ordering a fresh election It is for consideration which of these alternatives maybe resorted to. It might perhaps be desirable to direct a fresh election & watch the result for orders

Rule 9 provides that in the event of two candidates becoming an equal number of votes, Govt may appoint the President or may order a fresh election

As there were already two chances and there will be out 1½ more the have elapsed there will be no use of ordering another fresh election especially as the parties are equally divided

Therefore the Govt has to appoint the President

The case of Mr Sopal Sreedharan Iyer cannot be thought of as the party to which he belongs would probably come out and say he was to be in effect a nomination by Govt and cannot be accepted as per their policy against nomination Narasinga Rao is a real communist of long standing He may be appointed as the President
